PASSAGE OF AN IRON ROD THROUGH THE HEAD.

To the Editor of the Boston Medical and Surgical Journal.

DEAR SIR,—Having been interested in the reading of the case of "Injury of the Head," reported in your Journal by Professor Stimpson, of Catskill, N. Y., I am pleased to offer you the case of a very severe, singular, and so far as the result is taken into account, almost unparalleled case, of that class of injuries, which has recently fallen under my own care. The accident happened in this town, upon the line of the Rutland and Burlington Rail Road, on the 14th of Sept. last, at 4½ o'clock, P. M. The subject of it is Valens P. Gage, a fireman, engaged in building the road, 25 years of age, of middle stature, vigorous physical organization, temperate habits, and possessed of considerable energy of character.

It appears from his own account and that of the by-standers, that

ART. I.—On the Case of Passing an Iron Rod through the Head, reported by Dr. J. M. Harlow, A. S., Professor of Surgery in Cornell University. (With plates.)

This history was originally published in the Journal of Surgery, and of other cases concerning acute brain abscesses, published, according to the wishes of Dr. J. M. Harlow, at Cornell, Ithaca. Having received a complimentary copy of the Journal, I have after its appearance, from a medical colleague who had examined the subject, I have become indebted to it.

RECOVERY AFTER SEVERE INJURY TO THE HEAD.

MR. CHAIRMAN AND FELLOWS OF THE ILLINOIS MEDICAL SOCIETY:

I HAVE the pleasure of being able to present you, to-day, the history and sequel of a case of severe injury of the head, followed by recovery, which, so far as known, remains without a parallel in the annals of surgery. The case occurred nearly twenty years ago, in an obscure country town (Oswego, W. V.), was attended and recorded by an obscure country physician, and was recalled by the Maripolitan Doctors with several pieces of evidence, notwithstanding that thirty years had elapsed since the case had taken place. A close-up photograph of a sandy beach. The sand is a light brown color and shows various textures, including ripples and small indentations. In the center-right, there is a distinct circular footprint. To the left of the center, a small crab is visible, partially buried in the sand. The overall scene is a natural, outdoor setting.
